SPECIAL STATE BUDGET REPORT

GOOD NEWS, BAD NEWS FOR TRAILS ON STATE BUDGET FRONT

We've received some good news regarding funding for trails programs in Alaska. In a response to an advocacy letter from the Interior Trails Preservation Coalition, based in Fairbanks, Rep. Grier Hopkins (D – Fairbanks) wrote that a subcommittee had restored funding for the Recreational Trails Program, the Land and Water Conservation Fund, and the Snowmobile Trails Program.

"I am happy to report that the House Finance Subcommittee for the Department of Natural Resources (on which I sit) reinstated the funds for trails programs which you referenced in your letter, thereby rejecting the budget decreases proposed by Governor Dunleavy," Hopkins wrote in a letter dated March 22. He added that the "budget now heads to the House Finance Committee before making its way through the subcommittee process in the Senate."

Rep. Hopkins also warned trail advocates should not to get complacent.

"Make no mistake, the budget process is a political one. Please consider voicing your values and positions by sharing your views through letters to the editor of the Fairbanks Daily News-Miner, posts on social media and by continuing to attend community meetings and social organizations – and asking that those organizations take a stand on the issues important to them."

NOW THE BAD NEWS

Several veteran state workers are leaving these programs, either to retire or to take jobs elsewhere. Alaska State Trails Coordinator Darcy Harris is leaving April 1 to take a job with the Municipality of Anchorage. Her position had reportedly been downgraded. Grants Administrator Steve Neel, another key staff member, is laid off effective June 30 under the governor's budget. Neel may retire even if the funding is restored. Diane Houston, an accounting technician, who has done billings for the Recreational Trails Program and the Snowmobile Trails Program for many years is also moving on as of March 29.

While the empty existing positions will be filled and the cut positions may end up being funded, the loss of experience will surely be felt. It's hard to say exactly what the effect will be, but the loss of that much experience all at once can't be good. The earlier concern that Recreational Trails Program grants may end up being available only to the state seems even more likely.

Under Gov. Dunleavy's budget the Snowmobile Trails Program is to be completely cut, state administration of the federal Land and Water Conservation Fund appeared to have been cut (essentially rejecting more than $1 million in federal funding this coming year), and state administration of the Recreational Trails Program is to be severely cut back, possibly making the funding available only to the state. (Currently about half the funding goes to local governments and nonprofit groups.)

There are other possible effects, hinted at by Harris in a goodbye email.

As far as the other events that I have worked on with many of you, such as First Day Hikes, National Trails Day, and National Public Lands Day, keep up the good work! I do not know how Alaska State Parks will engage with these in the future...

Trail advocates from around the state will likely have differing opinions about Gov. Dunleavy's budget, but if you would like to see any or all of these program continue, please speak up.

ASSEMBLY DENIES REZONE REQUEST OFF CREAMER'S/ADMA TRAILS

The Fairbanks North Star Borough Assembly apparently rejected a request to rezone property near the Creamer's Field/ADMA trails that had been causing a lot of discussion and concern among trail users and neighbors.

Stan Justice, a trails advocate who opposed the rezone, attended the meeting on March 28 and said that the assembly denied the rezone request by a 7-0 vote. He said more than 20 people testified on the request with only the business owner who requested the rezone, Don Duncan, speaking in favor. As of this writing, no local independent news story of the meeting has been found on the Internet.

The rezone had been requested by Duncan to enhance his snowmachine touring business, which has been operating in the area for a number of years. The rezone would allow him to keep his snowmachines at the property rather than truck them to the site for tours. Discussion by trail users and neighbors about the rezone had generally been negative, though some people have spoken in favor of the proposal.

INPUT SOUGHT ON WHITE MOUNTAINS, STEESE TRANSPORTATION

BLM Eastern Interior Field Office is seeking public input on trails and access in the White Mountains and Steese areas. Currently we are collecting preliminary information and verifying our road and trail inventory. After the inventory is complete, the field office will develop transportation and travel plans for these areas. An environmental assessment will be prepared in conjunction with the plans. The plans will address both motorized and non-motorized access, allowable types of motorized and non-motorized use, road and trail networks, travel on Birch Creek and Beaver Creek and conflicts between user groups.

People can view the information and comment online and/or attend the meetings. Meetings will be held in Anchorage (April 3), Fairbanks (April 4), Central (April 5), and Fort Yukon (April 8). To see more about the meetings see: <http://tinyurl.com/y5o49k8b>

HELP LOCAL GROUPS WIN GRANT MONEY THROUGH REI CAMPAIGN

You can help three Fairbanks groups win grant money for trail projects from REI through the company's "Loving Our Local Outdoors" campaign.

REI plans to give $20,000 in grant money to the three groups for trail stewardship projects in the Fairbanks area as part of the campaign. All the groups will receive some of the $20,000, but how much depends on REI members. The three groups and their projects are as follows:

- The Interior Alaska Trails and Parks Foundation: Work with the Fairbanks North Star Borough to improve signage and conditions of Skyline Ridge Trail.
- The Interior Alaska Land Trust: Improve trails and add bridges at Chinook Park along the Cripple Creek historic channel.
- The Nordic Ski Club of Fairbanks: Maintain and improve trails in the Birch Hill Recreation Area.

Here's how it works:

- When REI members make an in-store purchase between up until April 8 they will receive a token at the register. (Tokens are not available with online purchases.)
- The member can then use the token to vote on one of the three groups. (A display is up in the REI store lobby.)
- All REI members (including staff of the groups and REI staff) are eligible to receive a token after each purchase made during the campaign.
- A certain amount of the funds have been set aside for "member choice." Those funds will be divided among the three groups depending on the voting. The more tokens a group gets, the more funding it gets.
- After the campaign is over, REI will report back to customers the total grant amount to each of the three local stewardship projects.

So, if you shop at REI from now until April 8, make sure to get your token and vote. (If you aren't given a token, you can remind the sales associate. They have a lot of promotions happening right now and sometimes forget.)

SPRING TRAILS ARE VULNERABLE, PLEASE USE WITH CARE

Alaska Trails asks that you please keep in mind how your trail activities might affect other trail users, especially in the spring.

As snow melts and the ground thaws, the trails become extremely muddy. Using really muddy trails at this time can result in ruts that stay all summer when the trails dry out. Those ruts can make the trails difficult to use all summer and into the next winter. They help create erosion by keeping water on the trails.

Early season damage of trails is a recurring problem. Many people are chomping at the bit to get outside once the snow melts. And some people love to get as muddy as they can while out on the trails. But with a little thought this problem can be greatly reduced.

- Try to be patient. Stay off the trails if you can. If you are unsure if a trail is ready to be used, check it out with the commitment to turn back if you are doing too much damage.
- Choose low impact. If you use the trails in several different ways, choose the method of travel that will cause the least amount of damage if you do run into some muddy sections.
- Pick your trails carefully. Use well-drained trails with lots of southern exposure. They typically dry out the quickest. If you just have to get muddy, please limit your activities to trails that are already thrashed. A little more damage probably won't make a big difference, but a trail in nice shape can be damaged for a season in a hurry.

An alternative to using trails in the spring is to get out on foot or by bike and go explore quiet subdivision roads new to you. You get to be outside, be active, and probably find out new things about your community. For additional ideas see this Fairbanks Daily News-Miner story: <http://tinyurl.com/jfsq5b5>

STATEWIDE

REGISTER NOW FOR 2019 STATEWIDE TRAILS CONFERENCE

If you register for the Statewide Trails Conference by April 1 (no foolin') you will be entered into a drawing for two $50 gift cards to the Mooses Tooth / Bear Tooth!

This year's Alaska Trails 2019 Statewide Trails Conference will be held April 18-20 at the University of Alaska Anchorage. Our conference keynote speaker is Lisa Maloney, author of the soon-to-be-released Day Hiking Southcentral Alaska. Lisa and publisher Mountaineers Books are donating 1% of the proceeds of the book to Alaska Trails! (See story on book in Southcentral section.)

We would also like to thank our most recent sponsors Alyeska Pipeline Service Company and Friends of State Parks Mat-Su for their generous support.

Other great sponsors include ConocoPhillips, Base Camp Anchorage, Bosco's, Alyeska Pipeline, and Mat-Su Trails and Parks Foundation. If your business or employer would like to help sponsor the conference, please contact Alaska Trails at:

907-334-8049 or office@alaska-trails.org.

We have many great presenters, including Ryan Branciforte, co-founder and CEO of OuterSpatial, which is leading an approach to mapping that gives stewards of our open spaces — including government agencies and nonprofits — control over what information is presented and how it's presented via mobile apps. His presentation will feature a few local Alaska-based organizations as well as others throughout the country. See more descriptions of breakout sessions and the Active Transportation Track on our conference website: <http://www.alaska-trails.org/2019-trails-conference.html>

A pre-conference training with Mike Shields will again be held. This course will be Terrain Dynamics and will be held April 16-17. It will include a field day at Russian Jack Springs Park South. Class size is limited, so email soon to reserve a spot (steve.cleary@alaska-trails.org).

Alaska Trails' annual conference provides trail users and the wider public a statewide opportunity for training and networking with trail professionals. Government agencies, trail builders and non-profits will be able to share what they have learned and engage in conversations with others to share best practices and new ideas. There are many ways to enjoy Alaska's trails and the conference brings them together all under one roof. Trails and outdoor recreation are a public health asset and an economic engine for the state and the trails conference seeks to raise the profile of trails and their importance to Alaska.

For agenda, registration and other details, please go to: <http://www.alaska-trails.org/trails-conference.html> and for more information, contact Steve Cleary at steve.cleary@alaska-trails.org or 907-334-8049. PARK SERVICE ANNOUNCES CHALLENGE COST SHARE PROGRAM

Got a great idea that will help people enjoy and protect a national park, national trail, or Wild and Scenic River? Then round up some partners and get ready, because the NPS Challenge Cost Share Program is accepting applications until April 8.

Challenge Cost Share projects are intended to build collaboration between the National Park Service (NPS) and a wide variety of project partners -- non-profit, for-profit, or educational institutions. The Challenge Cost Share program is designed to cultivate shared efforts supporting the NPS mission with National Parks, National Trails, and Wild and Scenic Rivers and their partners.

The program encourages partnership projects that increase and enhance recreational access and enjoyment of these lands and waters, and that protect them for future generations.

For 2019, the program will provide a total of $386,000 to support these projects. Up to $25,000 will be awarded per project, and the selected partner organizations will need to match those funds 1-to-1 with their own funds and/or in-kind support.

For complete information and application procedures, go to: <https://www.nps.gov/ccsp>

BLM OFFERS LEAVE NO TRACE MASTER EDUCATOR COURSE

The BLM is pleased to announce that the Leave No Trace Master Educator course is coming to Alaska.

This is a backpacking course to be held in the White Mountains National Recreation Area. Course dates are the week of June 24. Course cost is $650. See the following link or contact Kelly Egger with any questions. To learn more about Leave No Trace (LNT) go to this web site: <https://lnt.org/>. Please contact Kelly (kegger@blm.gov; 907-474-2242) to register for the course, as it is not listed on the web site.

Course participants should have a commitment to teaching others and sharing the LNT principals. BLM, as with other agencies, has incorporated LNT principals into its permitting process as well as recreation and youth programs across the state.

The five-day Master Educator Course is the top tier of Leave No Trace training. This course provides participants with a comprehensive training on Leave No Trace skills and ethics with practical application during a field-based course. Participants learn minimum impact techniques through multiple methods including discussions, scenarios, demonstrations, and hands-on activities.

COMMENTS SOUGHT ON STATEWIDE ACTIVE TRANSPORTATION PLAN

The Alaska Department of Transportation and Public Facilities and DOWL is holding a virtual-public open house for the Alaska Statewide Active Transportation Master Plan 2019. The purpose of this open house is to provide the public with an opportunity to review the master plan, ask questions, and provide comments to the planning team. The public open house and 45-day comment period started March 18 and concludes May 3.

Visit the website www.akbikeped.com to view the Master Plan, join the email list and make a comment.

The Master Plan is:

- A policy document to define future goals, policies and objectives to encourage the creation of a comprehensive bicycle and pedestrian network for the State of Alaska.
- A framework to enable the identification of current facilities, needs and an approach to addressing gaps using defined objectives.
- An accountability document with specified performance measures, to enable DOT&PF to measure its progress toward achieving the plan's purpose.

SNOWMOBILE TRAILS PROGRAM APPLICATIONS AVAILABLE

The Snowmobile Trails Program was not included in Gov. Mike Dunleavy's budget (see link at bottom of story), but the state legislature has not had its say yet. The program has been cut and restored in the past. So, even though the program's future is uncertain, administrators are moving ahead as normal. Therefore, the following notice is currently valid.

Grant applications for the state Snowmobile Trails Program are now available. Public notice for applications must be posted by June 10. Grant applications must be submitted or postmarked by July 1. This program, administered by the state Division of Parks and Outdoor Recreation, provides reimbursable, matching grant funds for trail easement acquisition, development and maintenance of trails and trail-related facilities for snowmobile use. The program also provides funds for snowmobile safety programs. Matching funds are not required for safety programs.

Grant funds are generated from annual registration fees paid to the state by snowmobile owners statewide. For more information on the Snowmobile Trails Grant Program and the Grooming Pool, please visit: <http://tinyurl.com/q33aj9m>

For general grant questions regarding the program please contact the Grants Administrator (907/269-8709). For project development questions please contact the State Trails Coordinator (907/269- 8699). Or contact either one through the Department of Natural Resources email page (<http://tinyurl.com/3umsvj5>).

NATIONAL TRAILS DAY COMING UP THE FIRST SATURDAY IN JUNE

National Trails Day is happening June 1. If you are interested in leading or organizing an event, visit <https://americanhiking.org/national-trails-day/> for information on how to host an event and where to register an event. National Trails Day is the country's largest celebration of trails. Events will take place in every state across the country and will include hikes, biking and horseback rides, paddling trips, birdwatching, geocaching, gear demonstrations, stewardship projects and more.

KEEP TRACK OF STATE LAND USE PLANS FOR IMPACT ON TRAILS

The state Department of Natural Resources has several plans and studies underway across the state that affect how the state deals with its lands. Often this includes land and water trails. These plans and studies have opportunities for public comment.

Take a look at the planning web page for the Division of Land, Water, and Mining (<http://dnr.alaska.gov/mlw/planning/>). If you see a plan or study that affects trails important to you, please look into opportunities for public comment.

Interior Trails Quarterly is a free email newsletter that comes out four times a year: March, June, September, and December. ITQ Action Updates come out once a month in between regular editions of the ITQ. Both are written and distributed by Eric Troyer, a lifelong Alaskan and trail user. To submit items, get on or off the mailing list, report problems, or anything else email Eric at fbxtrails@gmail.com. Note: submissions may also be used in the statewide Alaska Trails newsletter.

DISCLAIMER: Interior Trails Quarterly and ITQ Action Updates are not products of any organization. However, I am a board member of the Interior Trails Preservation Coalition, a member of several Interior trail user groups, and a member of Alaska Trails and editor of its newsletter.

CHANGED NEWSLETTER NAME

Okay, if you've read this far you might also be one of the few people who noticed that I changed the name of this newsletter from the Interior Trails Quarterly to the Interior Trails Newsletter. Here's the deal:

When I started this back in 2006, I assumed there would be only enough Interior trail news to fill up newsletters about four times a year. It didn't take too long for me to realize there was much more trails stuff happening and that a monthly made more sense. At first I thought those in-between editions would be filled mainly with calls for action, such as opportunities to comment on plans, with deadlines that would fall before the next quarterly. So, I called those "Action Updates." Sounds kind of cool, too!

And as I collected more and more web stuff about trails in interior Alaska – maps, descriptions, groups, etc. – I started running them in my newsletter, but that was too much for every newsletter, so I put them in the "Quarterly" editions. I also made more of an attempt to get photos in the "Quarterly" editions.

I also started editing the Alaska Trails statewide newsletter around the time I started the ITQ. For a while I had some news in the ITQ that I didn't include in the Alaska Trails newsletter. But as I started volunteering for more groups, my newsletter time became harder to come by so I just started running pretty much everything from the ITQ in the Alaska Trails "Interior" section. A few of you noticed and asked me why I didn't just drop the ITQ and invite everyone on my list to subscribe to the Alaska Trails newsletter. But I liked having a separate email list in case interior-only issues came up and I wanted to put a call for action out, which has happened a couple of times.

As time went along, I realized that my interior trails news might be better disseminated in a blog and website. After a couple of aborted attempts at creating an interior Alaska trails website, Don Kiely helped me create one a couple of years ago. (Thank you, Don!) Still too busy, I haven't gotten it fully off the ground, but I have finally put all the web resources on the site and have started including a link in every newsletter. The next step was to create a blog. Simple. And so several (or more than several) months have passed and I still haven't done it yet. Still too dang busy. I hope I can make that happen this summer. (Summer is actually a slower time for me because I do a ton for the Nordic Ski Club of Fairbanks.)

But when I started to write this month's newsletter I realized yet again that I was about to make another "Action Update" edition, I realized that was pretty silly. There really isn't anything substantially different between the "quarterly" editions and the "Action Updates." So, I just changed the name. I don't know why I didn't think of that sooner. Probably because I still tell myself that next month will be the month I transition to a blog. I mean, it's only been two or three years of "just around the corner." Surely, it will happen soon. Right?
